

I find totally unacceptable the proposed changes that would do away with the restrictions upon cross-ownership of media interests.

We need more, not less diversity in the media in the U.S., and eliminating those restrictions would in the end create less diversity, not more.

The broadcast media (TV & radio) especially, should not be allowed to wind up in the hands of one or two international conglomerates - which is where we are headed. Now (if ever) is not the time to accelerate that process.
